THE GREAT PREACHER.

T. DE WITT TALMAGE AT THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE.

A Noble Sermon—"Superfluities a Hindrance"—A Dwarf on the Right Side Stronger Than a Giant on the Wrong Side—God Traces Man's Footsteps.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23.—[Special.] The Rev. T. de Witt Talmage, D.D., preached in the Brooklyn Tabernacle this morning on the subject, "Superfluities a Hindrance." Several ocean steamers arrive in port Sunday morning, and many of the passengers, browned by the sea, come directly from the wharf to the Brooklyn Tabernacle. The great congregation, led by Prof. A. L. Corbett, and accompanied by the organ, at which Prof. Brown presides, joined in the opening hymn:

"We are the people, we are the people,
Our souls are in our mortal frame.
What lasting honors shall we rear,
Amidst the things that are so vain?"

Dr. Talmage's text was I Chronicles, xx, 6: "A man of great stature, whose fingers and toes were four and twenty, six on each hand and six on each foot; and he also was the son of the giant. But when he defied Israel, Jonathan, the son of Shimea, David's brother, slew him."

Malformation, photographed, and for what reason? Did not this passage slip in by mistake into the sacred scriptures, as sometimes a paragraph utterly unobnoxious to the editor gets into his newspaper during his absence? Is not this scriptural error? No, no, there is nothing haphazard about the Bible. This passage of scripture was certainly intended to be put in the Bible as the passage, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." Or "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son."

And I select it for my text today because it is charged with practical and tremendous meaning. By the people of God the Philistines had been conquered, with the exception of a few giants. The race of giants is mostly extinct. I am glad to say. There is no use for giants now except to enlarge the income of museums. But there were many of them in olden times. Goliath was, according to the Bible, 11 feet 4 inches high. Or, if we do not believe the Bible, the famous Pliny, the secular writer, declares that at Crete by an earthquake a monument was broken open, discovering the remains of a giant 46 cubits or 96 feet high. So, whether you prefer sacred or profane history, you must come to the conclusion that there were in those olden times cases of human attitude monstrous and appalling. David had smashed the skull of one of these giants, but there were other giants that the Davidian war had not yet subdued, and one of them stands in my text. He was only of Alpine stature, but had a surplus of digits. To the ordinary fingers was annexed an additional finger, and the foot had also a superfluous addendum. He had 24 terminations to hands and feet where others have 20. It was not the only instance of the kind. The Emperor of Java had a son endowed with the same number of extremities. Volcanus, the poet, had six fingers on each hand. Maupius in his celebrated letter, described two families near Berlin similarly equipped of hand and foot. All of which I can believe, for I have seen two cases of the same physical superabundance. But this giant of the text is in battle, and as David, the dwarf warrior, had dispatched one giant the brother of David slays this monster of my text, and there he lies, after the battle in Gath, a dead giant. His stature did not save him, and his superfluous appendages of hand and foot did not save him. The probability was that in the battle his sixth finger on his hand made him clumsy in the use of his weapon and his sixth toe crippled his gait. Behold the prostrate and malformation of the text: A man great of stature, whose fingers and toes were four and twenty, six on each hand and six on each foot; and he also was the son of the giant. But when he defied Israel, Jonathan, the son of Shimea, David's brother, slew him."

Behold how superfluities are a hindrance rather than a help! In all the battle at Gath that day there was not a man with ordinary hand and ordinary foot and ordinary stature that was not better off than this physical curiosity of my text. As physical size is apt to run in families, the probability is that this brother of David who did the work was of an abbreviated stature. A dwarf on the right side is stronger than a giant on the wrong side, and all the body, and mind, and estate, and opportunity that you can use for God and the betterment of the world is a sixth finger and a sixth toe, and a terrific hindrance. The most of the good done in the world, and the most of those who win the battles for the right, are ordinary people. Count the fingers of their right hand and they have just five, no more and no less. One Doctor Duff among missionaries, but three thousand missionaries that would tell you they have only common endowment. One Florence Nightingale to nurse the sick in conspicuous places, but ten thousand women who are just as good nurses though never heard of. The Swamp Angel was a big gun that during the war made a big noise, but muskets of ordinary calibre and shells of ordinary heft did the execution. President Tyler and his cabinet go down the Potomac one day to experiment with the Peacemaker, a great iron gun that was to frighten with its thunder foreign navies. The gunner touches it off and it explodes and leaves cabinet ministers dead and the nation at a while at that time all up and down our coasts were cannon of ordinary bore able to be the defense of the Nation, and ready at the first touch to waken to duty. The curse of the world is big guns. After the politicians, who have made all the noise, go home, there comes from angry discussion on the evening of the first Monday in November, the next day the people with the silent ballots will settle everything, and settle it right, a million of the white slips of paper, they drop making about as much noise as the fall of an apple blossom.

Clear back in the country today, there are mothers in plain apron, and shoes fashioned on a rough last by the shoemaker at the end of the lane, rocking babies that are to be the Martin Luther, and the Faradays, and the Edisons, and the Bismarcks, and the Gladstones, and the Washingtons, and the George Whitefields of the year 1938, and who will make the twentieth century so bright that this much-lauded nineteenth in comparison will seem a part of the dark ages. The longer I live the more I like common folks. They do the world's work, bearing the world's burdens, weeping the world's sympathies, carrying the world's consolation. Among lawyers we see rise up a Rufus Choate, or a William Wirt, or a Samuel L. South-and, but society would go to pieces tomorrow if there were not thousands of common lawyers to see that men and women get their rights. A Valentine Mott or a Willard Parker rises up eminent in the medical profession, but what an unlimited sweep would pneumonia, and diphtheria, and scarlet fever, have in the world if it were not for ten thousand common doctors. The old physician in his gig rolling up the lane of the farmhouse, or riding on horseback, his medicines in the saddle-bags, arriving on the ninth day of the fever, and coming in to take hold of the pulse of the patient, while the family, pale with anxiety, are looking on and waiting for his decision in regard to the patient, and hearing him say, "Thank God, I have mastered the case, he is getting well," excited in me an admiration quite equal to the mention of the names of the great metropolitan doctors, Pancoast or Gross or Joseph C. Hutchinson of the past, or the illustrious living men of the present.

Yet what do we see in all departments? People not satisfied with ordinary spheres of work and ordinary duties. Instead of trying to see what they can do with a hand of five fingers they want six. Instead of usual endowment of 20 manual and pedal appendages they want 24. A certain amount of money for livelihood and for the supply of those whom we leave behind us, after we have departed this life, is important, for we have the best authority for saying: "He that provideth not for his own, and especially those of his own household, is worse than a wild man." But the large and fabulous sums for which many struggle, if obtained, would be a hindrance rather than an advantage. The anxieties and annoyances that those have whose estates have become plethoric can only be sold by those who possess them. It will be a good thing when, through your industry and prosperity, you can own the house in which you live. But suppose you own fifty houses and you have all those rents to collect and all those tenants to please? Suppose you have branched out in business successes until in almost every direction you have investments? The fire bells ring at night; you rush upstairs to look out of the window to see if it is any of your mills. Epidemic of crime comes, and there are embezzlements and abscondings in all directions, and you wonder whether any of your bookkeepers will prove recreant. A panic strikes the financial world, and you are like a hen under a sky full of hawks and trying with anxious click to get your overgrown chickens safely under the wing. After a certain stage of success has been reached you have to trust so many important things to others that you are apt to become the prey of others, and you are swindled and defrauded, and the anxiety you had on your brow when you were earning your first thousand dollars is not equal to the anxiety on your brow now that you have won your three hundred thousand. The trouble with such a one as he is spread out like the unfortunate one in my text. You have more fingers and toes than you know what to do with. Twenty were more, 24 is a hindering superfluity. Disraeli says that a king of Poland abdicated his throne and joined the people, and became a porter to carry burdens. And some one asked him why he did so, and he replied: "Upon my honor, gentlemen, the load which I quit is by far heavier than the one you see me carry. The weightiest is but a straw when compared to that world under which I labored. I have often more in my fingers and toes than I have in my mind. I begin to live and to be a king myself. Elect whom you choose; for me who am so well it would be madness to return to court."

"Well," says somebody, "such overdone persons ought to be pitied, for their work is made real and their insomnia and their nervous prostration are genuine." I reply that they could get rid of the bothersome surplus by giving it away. If a man has more houses than he can carry without vexation let him drop a few of them. If his estate is so great he cannot manage it without getting nervous dyspepsia from having too much, let him divide up with those who have nervous dyspepsia because they cannot get enough. No, they guard their sixth finger with more care than they did the original five. They go limping with what they call gout, and know not that, like the giant of my text, they are lamed by a superfluous toe. A few of them by large charities bleed themselves of this financial obesity and restore to the world many of them hang on to the hindering superfluity till death, and then, as they are compelled to give the money up anyhow, in their last will and testament they generously give some of it to the Lord, expecting no doubt, that He will feel very much obliged to them. Thank God that once in a while we have a Peter Cooper, who, owning an interest in the iron works at Trenton, said to Mr. Lester: "I do not feel quite easy about the amount we are making. Working under one of our patents, we have a monopoly which seems to me something wrong. Everybody has to come to us for it, and we are making money too fast." So they reduced the price, and this while our philanthropist was building Cooper Institute, which is a hundred institutions of kindness and mercy all over the land. But the world had to wait 5800 years for Peter Cooper. I am glad for the benevolent institutions that get a legacy from men who during their life were as stingy as death, but who in their last will and testament bestowed money on hospitals and missionary societies; but for such testators I have no respect. They would have taken every cent of it with them if they could, and bought up half of heaven and let it out at ruinous rent, or loaned the money to celestial citizens at 2 per cent. a month, and got a corner on hells and trumps. They lived in this world 50 or 60 years in the presence of appalling suffering and death, and made no effort for their relief. The charitable such people are for the most part in "paulo-post future" tense, and they are going to do them, in his last will, by a donation to benevolent societies, tries to atone for his lifetime selfishness, the hell-at-law will try to break the will by proving that the old man was senile or crazy, and the expense of the litigation will about leave in the lawyers' hands what was meant for the American Bible Society. O ye over-weighted, successful business men, whether this sermon reach your ear or your eye, let me say that if you are prostrated with anxieties about keeping or investing these tremendous fortunes, I can tell you how you can do more to get your health back, and your spirits raised than by drinking gallons of bad tasting water at Saratoga, Homberg or Carlsbad—give to God and humanity the Bible, and 10 per cent. of all your income, and it will make a new man of you, and from restless walking of the floor at night you shall have eight hours sleep without the help of bromide of potassium, and from no appetite you will hardly be able to wait your regular meals and your own cheek will fill up, and when you die the blessings of those who, but for you, would have perished, will bloom all over your grave with violets if it be spring, or gladioli if it be autumn.

Perhaps some of you will take this advice, but the most of you will not. And you will try to cure your swollen hand by getting on it more fingers, and your rheumatic foot by getting on it more toes, and there will be a sigh of relief when you are gone out of the world; and when over your remains the minister recites the words, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord," persons who have been appreciation of the ludicrous will hardly be able to keep their faces straight. But whether in that direction my words do good or not, I am anxious that all who have only ordinary equipment be thankful for what they have and rightly employ it. I think you all have, figuratively as well as literally, fingers enough. Do not long for hindering superfluities. Standing in the presence of this fallen giant of my text, and in this post-mortem examination of him, let us learn how much better off we are with just the usual hand, the usual foot. You have thanked God for a thousand things, but I warrant you never thanked Him for those two implements of work and locomotion that no one but the infinite and omnipotent God could have ever planned or made, the hand and the foot. Only that soldier or that mechanic who in a battle or through machinery has lost them knows anything about their value, and only the Christian scientist can have any appreciation of what divine masterpieces they are. Sir Charles Bell, the English surgeon, on the battlefield of Waterloo, while engaged in amputations of the wounded was so impressed with the wondrous construction of the human hand that when the Earl of Bridgewater gave $40,000 for essays on the wisdom and goodness of God, and eight books were written. Sir Charles Bell wrote his entire book on the wisdom and goodness of God as displayed in the human hand. The 27 bones in the hand and wrist with cartilages and ligaments and plaques of the fingers all made just ready to knit, to sew, to build up, to pull down, to wheel, to write, to plow, to pound, to weave, to battle, to give friendly salutation. The tips of its fingers are so many telegraph offices by reason of their sensitiveness of touch. The bridges, the tunnels, the cities of the world, and the victories of the hand. The hands are not dumb, but often speak as distinctly as the lips. With our hands we invite, we repel, we invoke, we entreat, we wring them in grief or clap them in joy, we kneel and pray, we kneel in benediction. The malformation of the giant's hand in the text glorifies the usual hand. Fashioned of God more exquisitely and wondrously than any human mechanism than was ever contrived, I charge you to use for ever and the life of the world out of its moral predicament. Employ it in the sublime work of gospel handshaking. You can see the hand is just made for that. Four fingers just set right to touch your neighbor's hand on one side and your thumb set so as to clutch it on the other side. By all the bones, and joints, and muscles, and cartilages, and ligaments, the voice of Nature joins with the voice of God commanding you to shake hands. The custom is as old as the Bible, anyhow. Jesus said to Jehonadab: "Set your heart right as to my heart is with thine heart? If it be, give me thine hand." When hands join in Christian salutation a gospel electricity thrills across the palms from heart to heart, and from the shoulder of one to the shoulder of the other. Shake hands all around. With the timid and for their encouragement, shake hands. With the troubled and in warm-hearted sympathy, shake hands. With the young man just entering business and discouraged at the small sales, and large expenses, shake hands. With the child who is new from God and started on an unending journey for which he needs to gather great supply of strength, and who can hardly reach up to you now, because you are so much taller, shake hands. Across cradles and dying beds and graves, shake hands. With your enemies who have done all to defame and hurt you, but whom you can afford to forgive, shake hands. At the door of churches, where people come in, and at the door of churches where people go out, shake hands. Let pulpit shake hands with pew, and Sabbath day shake hands with week day, and earth shake hands with heaven. Oh, the strange, the mighty, the undefined, the mysterious, the eternal power of the honest hand-shaking. The difference between these times and the millennial times is that now some shake hands, but then, all will shake hands, throne and footstool, across seas, nation with nation, God and man, church militant and church triumphant.

Yes, the malformation of this giant's foot glorifies the ordinary foot, for which I fear we have never once thanked God. The 26 bones of the foot are the admiration of the anatomist. The arch of the foot fashioned with grace and a poise that Trajan's arch at Beneventum, or Constantine's arch at Rome, or arch of Triumph at the end of Champs Elysees could not equal. Those arches stand where they were planted, but this arch of the foot is an adjustable arch, a yielding arch, a flexible arch, and ready for movements innumerable. The human foot is so fashioned as to enable man to stand upright as no other creature, and leave the hand that would otherwise have to help in balancing the body free for anything it chooses. The foot of the camel fashioned for the sand, the foot of the bird fashioned for the tree branch, the foot of the hind fashioned for the slippery rock, the foot of the lion fashioned to rend its prey, the foot of the horse fashioned for the solid earth, but the foot of man made to cross the desert, or climb the tree, or scale the cliff, or walk the earth, or go anywhere he needs to go. With that divine triumph of anatomy in your possession, where do you walk? In what path of righteousness or what path of sin have you set it down? Where have you left the mark of your footsteps? Amid the petrifactions in the rocks have been found the mark of the feet of birds and beasts of thousands of years ago. And God can trace out all the footsteps of your lifetime, and those you made 50 years ago as plain as those made in the last soft weather, all of them petrified for the Judgment day. Oh, the foot! How divinely honored, not only in its construction, but in the fact that God represents Himself in the Bible as having feet: "The clouds on the dust of His feet;" "Darkness was under His feet;" "The earth is My footstool." And, representing cyclones, and hurricanes, and whirlwinds, and hurricanes, as winged creatures, He describes Himself as putting His foot on these monsters of the air and walking from pinion to pinion, saying: "He walketh upon the wings of the wind." "Thou hast put all things under his feet," cries the psalmist. Oh, the foot! Give me the autobiography of your foot from the time you stepped out of the cradle until today, and I will tell you exact character now and what are your prospects for the world to come. That there might be no doubt about the fact that both these pieces of divine mechanism, hand and foot, belong to Christ's service, both hands of Christ and both feet of Christ were spiked on the cross. Right through the arch of both His feet to the hollow of His footstep went the iron of torture, and from the palm of His hand to the back of it, and there is not a muscle or nerve or bone among the 27 bones of the hand and wrist, or among the 26 bones of the foot, but it belongs to Him now and forever. Charles Reade, the great writer, lost the joint of his forefinger by feeding a bear. Look out that your whole hand gets not into the maw of the old Cerberus of perdition. Sir Thomas Morebridge, at the battle of Luttermann lost his foot, and when the soldiers would carry him away he said: "No, I do not move until the battle is won." So if our foot be lamed or lost let it be in the service of God, our home or our country.

That is the most beautiful foot that goes about paths of greatest usefulness, and that the most beautiful hand that does the most to help others.

ENOUGH Harrison log cabins have been erected in this campaign to make a big town.

NEVER in the history of political parties have Federal officials and their appointees been so importuned to contribute their money to the campaign as under this civil-service reform Administration.

The old slavery element of the South believed as much in free trade as they did in their right to buy and sell laborers in the open market. They believe in it just the same today. They want cheap labor. Free trade brings in its train cheap labor, and that is what they are after.

HENRY GEORGE is carrying out his anti-poverty views in the most practical manner. He is opposed to poverty, and has taken to the Democratic stump, behind which the bar is placed, and this will enable him to keep a good distance between himself and poverty.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Journal wants to know why the "Christian Scientists," who believe that sickness and pain have no real existence, and are merely ideas, do not go down to Florida and offer their assistance to the unfortunate people who are suffering from this epidemic "idea." The point is well taken.

The solid South cannot stand solid against the attacks of the invisible foe—the dreaded Yellow Jack. The scourge pursues them and cuts them down. California may well be thankful that she is beyond the reach of such terrible invasion.

BOTH the Republican and Democratic candidates for County Treasurer have promised to distribute the county funds among the several banks of the city and county; the only difference being that while Col. Hewitt does not say whether he will divide the money equally or will give nine-tenths to the present depository and the balance to the others, Col. Banbury has distinctly stated that he will distribute the county funds equally, as far as possible, among the banks.

Some Good Authorities on Protection.

Protection is not by any means a new theory in this country. Its advocacy and practice are coeval with the existence of our country.

The views of Henry Clay and Daniel Webster are too well known to need repetition. Gen. Washington, in his first annual message to Congress, said:

"The safety and interest of the people require that they should promote such manufactures as tend to render them independent of foreign supplies, particularly military supplies."

He many times afterward strongly advocated the levying of duties for the encouragement and protection of manufactures. Thomas Jefferson expressed himself strongly in the same vein. President Madison, in his messages, repeatedly advised the adoption of protective measures. In his message sent to Congress in 1815 he says:

"There is no subject which can enter with greater force into the deliberations of Congress than that of the means to be preserved and promoted the manufactures which have sprung into existence and attained to the most successful development out of the United States during the period of the European wars; this source of national independence and wealth I anxiously recommend, therefore, to the prompt and constant guardianship of Congress."

John C. Calhoun, before his change of heart, favored protection. In James Monro's inaugural address is found the following emphatic declaration in favor of protection and a home market:

"Our manufacturers will likewise require the systematic and fostering care of government. Possessing, as we do, all the raw materials, the fruit of our own soil and industry, we ought not to depend, in the domestic market, on the supplies from other countries. While we are thus dependent, the sudden event of war, unthought and unexpected, cannot fail to plunge us in the most serious difficulties. It is important, too, that the capital which nourishes our manufactures should be domestic, and its influence in that case, instead of being directed to the promotion of agriculture and every other branch of industry. Equally important to the protection of our manufactures is the extension of the competitive market for our raw materials, as by extending the competition it will enhance the price, and protect the cultivator against the casualties incident to foreign markets."

The tariff of 1828 the highest before the war, was voted for by Martin Van Buren, Richard M. Johnson, Thomas H. Benton and James Buchanan. In a letter to a friend Gen. Andrew Jackson wrote:

"We have been too long subject to the policy of British merchants; it is time we should become a little Americanized; and instead of sending our raw materials to England, feed our own, or else in a short time (by continuing our present policy) we shall be rendered paupers ourselves."

Gen. Winfield Scott is on record as saying that he was once soundly smitten with the doctrine of free trade, but having studied the question thoroughly, became convinced that free trade, however beautiful in theory, would impoverish this country. Millard Fillmore, in a debate in Congress in 1842, admitted that if all the restrictive measures were done away with, here and in every other country, and we could accidentally rely on continued peace, that would be the most prosperous and happy state, but he looked for no such political millennium as this, and therefore believed that it is the duty of the Government to prefer our own country to all the world besides, in its disposition of duties.

There is food for thought in the statements of these distinguished men. Voters should ponder over them, and draw such conclusions therefrom as will aid them in voting wisely at the coming election.

Some Free-trade Figures.

The Kansas City Journal has a correspondence in London, England—Helen Campbell—who draws a sad picture of the condition of the working girls in that great metropolis of free trade. She says of the shop girls of London, "a large portion of them are only able to earn 8 cents a week, and the highest wages paid is about 18 shillings."

These girls, many of them, have no homes, but they club together, huddling in small back rooms, strangers to comfort and to luxury. Life holds nothing for them beyond a toiling existence. Like the American girl, they have not the hope of something better in the future. They are shut out from the expectation of bettering their condition in their own land, and they naturally turn to a country where industry is protected and the opportunities for advancement are open to them.

Every man in America who loves his wife and sister will vote for a system that protects the home and gives aid and encouragement to the woman who is thrown upon her own resources to obtain a livelihood. He will vote

AMUSEMENTS.

THE PHILHARMONICS AT TURNER HALL.—The Philharmonic Society, in its initial concert last night, scored a marked and interesting success. A strong musical association, capable of presenting properly music of the highest class, has long been needed in this city. Los Angeles has, so far, furnished no competitors on the coast that seemed rather curious than the arts were not given the same attention, and more material interests secured. Last March, several gentlemen interested in musical matters, met for the purpose of establishing a musical society, and after repeated disappointments an organization was finally perfected. One of the members, Prof. A. W. Whitworth, of St. Louis, was elected musical director, and the widow of the late George H. Whitworth, of St. Louis, was elected treasurer. The program was a most interesting one, and the thorough perfection shown in the rendition of each and every number of the program, the singers and orchestra members were in perfect rapport with their leader, and when this is the case success is assured. PASADENA.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY WITH-OUT MUCH DAMAGE.Accident—W.E.T. Club—Dedication—
Competitive Drill—Odds and Ends—
Personal Notes.

PASADENA, Sept. 27.—[Correspondence of The Times.] An exciting runaway occurred this morning. The horse and cart of Mr. C. A. White came tearing down East Colorado street at a terrible pace and ran into an express wagon in front of the vacant lot adjoining the Natural History Store. The wagon was upset, but luckily did not injure the driver. This caused the runaway to swerve to the left and make for the lot, which is considerably lower than the sidewalk, but he landed right side up with care and was caught. The express wagon was damaged some. Mr. White promptly told the driver to have it repaired at his expense. Had the "stable" been full, as usual, an awful mixture of horse-flesh and buggy runs would have been the result.

SAD ACCIDENT.
The wife of F. H. Burdick, the contractor, who was so badly injured at Santa Monica, has been brought home. Mrs. Burdick, while searching for shells and moss on the beach, saw a very large breaker coming and she tried to get out of the way, but before that was possible the breaker caught her on the leg, breaking it above the ankle and making a compound fracture. She was at once conveyed to the house of W. W. Webster, whose family she was visiting. Mr. Burdick and Dr. Hodge were sent for immediately. The latter, with the able assistance of Dr. Russell, of Santa Monica, set the limb, and the patient is now doing well under the care of Dr. Hodge.

W.E.T. SOCIAL.
Their usual weekly social was given by the W.E.T. Club last night at the residence of Mr. T. D. Barnum. All appeared in fancy dress, representing a large number of different characters. Every one enjoyed it. An elegant supper was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Watkins, Mrs. Channing, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Swartwood, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Holder, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Taylor, Mrs. Kennel, Mrs. Jerah D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Buell, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Locke, Mrs. Webster Watkins, the Misses Greenleaf, Fowler, Swartwood, Watkins, Shoemaker, Patton and Morwin, and Messrs. Cole, Pratt, Shirk, Rust, Schaff, Hall, Sueserott, Bell, Fordham and Holliday. BUSINESS.

Money, Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegram to the Times.—Money on call easy at 1 1/2 per cent; closed offered at 2 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 5 1/2 per cent.

Sterling exchange, dull but steady at 4 3/8 for 60-day bills, and 4 5/8 for demand.

New York, Sept. 27.—The stock market was active and stronger, with a decided broadening tendency. London was a buyer of all specialties, with liberal purchasers for domestic account. The most conspicuous stocks were Vanderbilts and grangers. Rumors from Chicago that the St. Paul officials had expressed a willingness to accept propositions from other roads in regard to milling in transit in business gave those grangers an upward movement which ceased only with the close of business.

Government bonds dull but steady.
